COMMUNITY EVENTS/INFORMATION

Dealing with ID Theft

The FTC has created new identity theft protection materials available at ftc.gov/idtheft. A brief brochure with tips everyone should have, a more detailed booklet with step-by-step instructions on dealing with the crime, and a brochure on how to recognize a new twist — child identity theft. You'll also find information on medical and tax-related identity theft, and three new minute-long animated videos that focus on the most important messages. Robocalls

Consumers are getting more robocalls than ever. Technology is the reason: Companies are using auto dialers that can send out thousands of phone calls every minute for an incredibly low cost. Click on the image to learn how to report rob calls.

400,000 Yahoo! Passwords Hacked

On July 11th, 2012, Yahoo reported a hacking group calling itself D33Ds Company has posted more than 400,000 Yahoo! usernames and passwords online. The company is encouraging all users to change their passwords. It's also pointing its users to the Yahoo Security page which allows users to familiarize themselves with Yahoo!'s online safety tips. Home Invasion: 2012-7946

On July 13, 2012 at approximately 9:00 pm, the Pittsfield Township Police Department responded to the 4200 block of Center Valley Drive for a report of a home invasion. Upon the officers arrival contact was made with the home owner. The home owner stated that sometime during the day an unknown person(s) entered the house through a rear door and stole several items. Officers made contact with neighbors in the area who advised two white teenage males had inquired about the house earlier in the day but were not observed entering the residence. No further description was available. Stolen from the house was money, jewelry, laptop, cellular phone and a game system.
